LIQUOR RAID IN WESTERLY

Contraband Goods Found in Windsor Hotel—Rev. John George Dutton, Queen Victoria's Eulogist, to Resign—St. Michael's Parish Fair Nets $1,000—Mrs. Betsey Slocum 97—Noyes M. Clark Seriously Injured in Runaway.

Saturday afternoon the police made the second liquor raid of the week. Chief Dransfield, accompanied by Sergeant Brown, Policeman West and Constable Reardon, visited the Windsor house, in High street. They found about two hundred bottles of ale and lager, some four gallons of whiskey and other liquors, and took the vessels and contents to the police station. The owner will have opportunity to make claim for the goods in the Third district court next Friday, and later will be arraigned for the sale of intoxicating or keeping the same with intent to sell or both.

The present proprietor of the Windsor hotel is James Martini, who was granted a license to conduct the hotel at the last meeting of the Westerly town council, and it was then stated explicitly that the tavern license did not carry with it the privilege of selling intoxicating liquors. When Chief Dransfield was asked for his opinion in connection with the granting of the tavern license he said that judging from appearance Mr. Martini ought to have a hotel license. Councilman Langworthy said that Mr. Martini had kept a hotel in the vicinity of Woonsocket, this complaint had been made against him, and that he believed Martini would not violate the law in his conduct of the Windsor hotel.

Rev. John George Dutton, for the past eleven years pastor of the Broad Street Christian church, and the senior pastor in Westerly, is to become pastor of the Christian church in Swansea, Mass. Mr. Dutton came to Westerly from Kittery, Me., and during his pastorate the local church has materially increased in membership and in financial condition. The church has been fortunate in the matter of bequests, among the more notable being $10,000 from the estate of Mrs. Stephen Wilcox and over $10,000 and a parsonage from the estate of Charles Coan.

Rev. Mr. Dutton has proven a zealous pastor. At the time of the death of Queen Victoria, Mr. Dutton preached a special sermon on the virtues of the dead queen. A copy of the sermon was sent to King Edward, who gave personal expression of his appreciation. The official notice has yet been given by Mr. Dutton as to the proposed change of pastorate.

St. Michael's parish fair came to a close Saturday night, and Rev. James W. Cunningham, pastor, announced Sunday that the net proceeds would amount to more than $1,000. The many articles were awarded, as was also the football to the most popular boy in the parish, which was elected by vote of five cents a vote. The competitors were Edwin Higgins, the winner, William Leary and Charles Mullaney. The fair has been in progress for over a week.

The oldest resident of Westerly is Mrs. Betsey Slocum, who was 97 years old Saturday. She received congratulations from relatives and friends at her home with her daughter, Mrs. Tazewell. She has two sons, Peter J. Slocum of Westerly and Thomas Slocum of West Hartford. Her age considered, Mrs. Slocum is in good health and can read readily without the aid of glasses.

Noyes M. Clark, nearly 70 years of age, received a serious injury Saturday afternoon that may result fatally. He is a meat peddler, and with his son was driving down Granite street, when the horse took fright at an automobile and started on a lively run. The breaching broke, letting the wagon on the horse, and the animal kicked at every opportunity. Mr. Clark was seriously injured and was taken to his home, in Grove street, in a carriage. Dr. Scanlon and Lewis found a fracture just above the ankle and another below the knee of the right leg, and also a severe cut in the knee. The injured leg was dressed and Mr. Clark was taken to the Rhode Island hospital.

Soon after Mr. Clark's arrival in the Rhode Island hospital, an operation that lasted two hours, three pieces of bone were taken from the lower fracture, one piece of the fibula and two of the tibia. The leg was put in a plaster cast. Mr. Clark also sustained a severe shock, and there is grave doubt of his recovery.

The automobile owned by Edward H. Blackler was completely destroyed by fire just before one o'clock Sunday morning when it was parked in the corner, on a return trip from Providence. Mr. Blackler being accompanied by Mrs. Blackler and three sons. The engine was destroyed, and the car was completely gutted. Mr. Blackler got out to investigate, when gasoline near the engine ignited, and in a moment the car was enveloped in flames. The occupants escaped injury.

Local Laocies.
John Campbell of Norwich was in Westerly Sunday.

The superior court for Washington county, Judge Stearns, will convene in Westerly today (Monday).

George E. Stillman of Plainfield, N. J., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. James P. Hemphill in Pawcatuck closed on Monday night. Those killed were Jess Mayor, who accidentally shot himself at Chase's lake on September 17. James Stoddard of Oak Bluff, Can., was near Malone on October 3 when a gun he carried exploded accidentally. Henry Lewis, proprietor of the Walside Inn at Clear Lake Junction, was mistaken for a deer and shot at Little Fish pond on October 5. Frank Tansy of Rockwood on October 23 stumbled on a log and his exploding gun sent a bullet through his abdomen. Frank White, a farmer residing at Malone, accidentally shot and killed himself on November 14 while deer hunting at Duane.

The open season for deer hunting in the Adirondacks began on September 18, and the period set apart for killing deer terminated October 31. Under an amendment of game laws made this year, however, hunters got 15 days longer, the period terminating Monday night in which to shoot bucks. The majority of sportsmen who hunt in the Adirondacks believe that the change in the game laws extending the open season for bucks until the middle of November is an unwelcome measure, looking at the matter from the standpoint of game protection, and are of the opinion that the season for all deer should end on October 31.

So far as can be learned, the extension of time has not been very disastrous to the deer this year, as the conditions for hunting have been unfavorable during the last two weeks. In the average year, however, the killing of the animals would be as great during the first half of November as it would be in the preceding six weeks. Ordinarily there is snow on the ground in the Adirondacks early in November, and as hunters under such circumstances can readily follow the tracks of the deer a great deal more game is killed than can be got when the ground is bare.

There has been little snow in the woods thus far this fall. It may also be noted that there have not been great many deer hunters in the Adirondacks during the last fortnight, a fact which probably is accounted for by the unfavorable weather conditions, —Auburn (N. Y.) Citizen.

HIDES AND SHOES.

The Beef Trust and the Leather Trust Command the Situation.

Leather has been going up, and a scarcity of hides is said to be the cause. The result must be higher prices of shoes. For months the manufacturers have been in a controversy with the wholesalers, whose customers, the retailers, say they can't get higher prices from the consumers.

In all probability there is no scarcity of hides. The shoe manufacturers are in competition, but the beef trust has got possession of the cattle trade of the country, and it is in control of the leather trust. There are independent producers, but they evidently think they can't make money by selling at the trust prices than by cutting under them. The leather trust is a dangerous enemy to antagonize.

What are the statistics of hides? The beef trust says the high prices of beef and hides are due to a deficient supply of cattle. The department of agriculture reported in ten years from 1899 to 1909 the number of cattle, other than milk cows, increased very close to 50 per cent. The population did not increase more than 20 per cent, probably. That does not look like a short supply—that is, if there is place and confidence in the enumeration of cattle. There is no much room to question the accuracy of the trade figures of cattle received at the principal stock yards.

According to The Cincinnati Price Current the number of cattle received at Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha in 1909 was 2,318,000 head, greater than in 1908. That is a very much larger increase than the growth of population.

Now look at the imports. The imports of hides of cattle this year and 1907—last year being omitted on account of bad trade—were: Eight months ending August, 1907, 98,324,293 pounds; eight months ending August, 1909, 156,737,998 pounds.

That doesn't look like a short supply. The business is being strangled by the combination in restraint of trade—the beef trust and the leather trust, which it owns.—Philadelphia Record.

Adirondack Deer Season.
Five men were killed and 11 others seriously injured by bullet shots in the 1909 Adirondack deer season which closed on Monday night. Those killed were Jess Mayor, who accidentally shot himself at Chase's lake on September 17. James Stoddard of Oak Bluff, Can., was near Malone on October 3 when a gun he carried exploded accidentally. Henry Lewis, proprietor of the Walside Inn at Clear Lake Junction, was mistaken for a deer and shot at Little Fish pond on October 5. Frank Tansy of Rockwood on October 23 stumbled on a log and his exploding gun sent a bullet through his abdomen. Frank White, a farmer residing at Malone, accidentally shot and killed himself on November 14 while deer hunting at Duane.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY.

A Practical Way.

A Sacramento judge paroled an autist sentenced to prison for 10 years, after being convicted on a manslaughter charge for killing by reckless and driving a father of five children. By the terms of the parole the autist is to support the children till they come of age. A just judge and a practical way to decide such cases!—New Haven Union.

By Agreement.

In some cities if manufacturers had been given so large an increase in their assessments as was agreed upon amicably in Derby, they would have threatened to move their industries elsewhere. The new figures in Derby, therefore, indicate an advance in public spirit which is more than commensurate with the tax increase. Probably one secret of the increase being accepted without open rupture lies in the fact that it was made proportional all along the line instead of one concern being boosted and another let go.—Aberdeen Sentinel.

Good Advice.

A good deal of space in periodical literature is taken up with telling us how to live in the right way for health and happiness. The advice is almost always good, and of as much value as it should be to healthy and happy. The reason that we are not all healthy and happy is not ignorance, there is the subject of good cheer at table. We are told that if we eat heartily and free from worry the appetite will be stimulated and good health will be encouraged. "Laugh and grow fat" is the long and short of it. How true it is, and yet how impossible of attainment by effort. If a man does not naturally laugh, if he is not actually free from worry, how vain these recommendations are.
